Alert: 12/16/2013

10:40am EST

As you learned from the MessageMe alerts this morning, the Harvard University Police Department (HUPD) received an unconfirmed report that explosives may have been placed in four buildings on campus: the Science Center, and Thayer, Sever and Emerson halls. Out of an abundance of caution, the buildings have been evacuated while the report is investigated by the HUPD and the Cambridge Police Department. The investigation is ongoing.

Access to Harvard Yard has been restricted to residents of the Yard with Harvard ID. As of the writing of this message the report remains unconfirmed and the HUPD has no reason to believe there is a threat to any other site on campus.

Harvard's focus is on the safety of our students, faculty and staff. We will continue to update the community via MessageME and through messages posted here and on the University's Twitter and Facebook accounts.

[REDACTED] is a [REDACTED] Harvard University Business School graduate [REDACTED]

b6
b7C

On 12/16/2013 at approximately 8:30 AM, [REDACTED] received the attached guerrillamail threat e-mail which was sent to his above gmail account and came into [REDACTED] on his i-phone. [REDACTED] thought the threat was probably not real, but that it was not his responsibility to determine this. [REDACTED] felt he should not take the e-mail threat lightly and that he needed to call the police. [REDACTED] next called 911 at approximately 8:38 AM. [REDACTED] was eventually patched through to the Harvard Police Department where he reported the threat e-mail. [REDACTED] did not electronically forward the threat e-mail to the Harvard Police Department until 6:13 PM, per the attached threat e-mail.

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] speculated that because his above e-mail can be publicly found on Harvard University's website as a [REDACTED] this is why he was sent the attached guerrillamail threat e-mail.

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] stated in dealing with this threatening e-mail it has caused him emotional anxiety, not because he felt at risk physically, but because he felt nervous for the Harvard University students who had to deal with the threat of a bombing.

Also present on the phone during the above interview was Detective [REDACTED] [REDACTED] of the Harvard University Police Department.

On 12/16/2013 at 8:35 AM, [redacted] received the attached guerrillamail e-mail which was sent to his above Harvard University e-mail account. At the time of receipt, [redacted] was in his vehicle on Rt. 16. Upon review of the e-mail, [redacted] immediately forwarded the e-mail to Harvard University Police senior staff for emergency notification due to the threats included in the e-mail. Emergency notifications were subsequently made. [redacted] was concerned because of the specific threatening nature of the e-mail. As an example, the e-mail included specific locations bombs were placed and the term "shrapnel."

In comparison to past threats Harvard University Police have received, this e-mail was the most troubling and concerning [redacted] has dealt with because of the wide impact the threat had. Additionally, this threat was different to past threats in that a huge response was needed to ensure multiple buildings were evacuated and cleared before the call could be made that the campus was safe.

On Dec. 20th, Sgt. [REDACTED] (HUPD) and I (Det. [REDACTED] CPD) interviewed [REDACTED] who is the [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] for Harvard university, located on [REDACTED]
Cambridge. [REDACTED] was asked how she was notified of the bomb threat. [REDACTED] stated she received an email between 8:30 am and 8:45 am on her phone. [REDACTED] states she looked at where it came from and said someone knows about this so she did not contact anyone at that time. [REDACTED] stated her [REDACTED] who is the [REDACTED] did not receive the email. [REDACTED] stated she went downstairs to the common area of the building to check on the students and she said the students were joking that someone did not want to take an exam.

The day after the bomb threat she spoke with [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] and she told him of the email. He directed her to contact HUPD. She then stated that if she did not receive the email by phone she would have thought, Oh my god this is real and would of contacted someone. But she thought some nut just emailed her phone and did not give it much attention.

She also stated that [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] will forward the email to Sgt. [REDACTED] when she gets a chance.

[REDACTED] states he was informed of the bomb threat by a radio affiliate of Channel 5 who had called him to get a comment at 9-9:30 am. He then checked his email on the Crimson.com site and found the email threat and forwarded it to HUPD. [REDACTED] said after he read it, he thought a crackpot had sent it. He said the way it was written made no sense. The email [REDACTED] After forwarding the email to [REDACTED] HUPD, [REDACTED] stated he did multiple interviews during the day. Sgt. [REDACTED] asked how the email would be sent to him. [REDACTED] stated that when you open the Crimson.com site and click contact us, [REDACTED] would receive the email. Cleared.
